Would you trade a Penny for a Dollar?

You can if you use Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda for your top-dressing and side-dressing needs. It costs a little more because it's worth more. But the difference in cost usually can be measured in pennies per acre, while the difference in value often amounts to dollars per acre.

Chilean "Bulldog" Soda gives you generous extra value. The nitrogen is 100 per cent nitrate. It's 100 per cent available (quick-acting); 100 per cent dependable. The minor elements make crops stronger, healthier. The sodium—26 pounds in every 100-pound sack—is a key to maximum returns on your entire fertilizer investment. It offsets the bad effects of acid-forming fertilizers, increases the efficiency of mixed fertilizers containing them. It releases "locked-up" potash in the soil...increases the availability and efficiency of soil phosphate...reduces potash, calcium and magnesium losses by leaching...develops larger, deeper root systems.

Sodium builds up the productivity of your land—more each year. It's an essential element for some crops...beneficial to most and necessary for maximum yields of many.

Pennies-per-acre difference in cost may mean dollars-per-acre difference in value to you. Chilean "Bulldog" Soda is the best fertilizer you money can buy. Use it for all of your top-dressing and side-dressing needs.

We are not going to publish anybody's big fishing yarns for nothing—we'll not be parties to telling any whoppers unless we receive a few pounds of the fish. This is fair warning, so you fellows who catch a small barrel every few days—your better come across. We can't catch fish but we have talents in other ways and will exchange our ability to tell a reasonable sounding yarn (greatly inflating your catch) for a few suckers.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS IN FUROR

Last week a furor raged in Birmingham where the Young Democrats staged a fund-raising dinner. They peddled tickets over the state at $10 a plate and brought in former Vice-President Alben Barkley to talk. No sooner did ticket sales get underway than brickbats were hurled at Frank Long, president of the Young Democrats League.

From every corner came accusations that the dinner was being staged as a Folsom rally. One gubernatorial candidate, after buying a small block of tickets, refused to attend, charging the affair was rigged for the benefit of James E. Folsom. Some way or another the ex-governor's supporters were supposed to have taken the lion's share of the tickets.

At this distance it is impossible to see through the smoke screen of charges and counter charges. But if anyone were to walk down almost any street in Alabama and give tickets to the first 100 persons he met, the dinner would be "rigged" in favor of Folsom. Other candidates are finding out early that "Big Jim" already has the voters "stacked" for him.

CAMP RUCKER CLOSING A GOOD SIGN

The gradual closing of Camp Rucker is leaving a hole in the business economy of Coffee County, especially around Enterprise. Locally quite a few persons are employed at the army installation. They will be thrown on the labor market at a time when it is tightening up and becoming increasingly hard to hold a job, much less get a new one.

Individuals working at the camp can't expect anywhere near the salaries and job benefits they are receiving from their temporary civil service jobs. None of the larger plants can afford the luxury of 30 days sick leave a year, paid vacations for only but long-time employees, high hourly wages and time and one-half for over 40 hours per week. Then the little business that employs from one to ten men surely isn't going to meet such working conditions when the boss himself puts in from 50 to 70 hours a week. On pay day he knows the sad fact it is a lot easier to be on a payroll than it is to meet one.

Closing of Camp Rucker is going to be hard on the persons losing a job but for the overall picture it is a healthy sign. The money saved by eliminating the cost of housekeeping in one camp is several millions a year. Multiply this by the seven or eight camps to be closed and the taxpayer (you and I) have saved quite a bit of money.

Lots of factors were considered probably in closing Camp Rucker ahead of other army posts in the country. The decision was made, protests registered and the camp closed anyway. It's a step in the return to normalcy in a competitive economy. The businessman already knows he has to go out and hustle to sell his merchandise. The man seeking a job is finding he must have a skill or special training to offer an employer to keep the job he has or land one that is open.

Both for the businessman and working man, the jolt of returning to a competitive market is a hard one to take. But those times are here and the sooner everyone gets readjusted to them, the better it will be. Closing of Camp Rucker merely hastened this area's return to a normal labor and consumer market. And it is sincerely hoped it is the first step towards lasting peace, less foreign aid and a lowering of taxes.

A SOUTHERN DEMOCRAT

In opening his campaign for the Senate seat held by John Sparkman, Laurie Battle declared he has always been a "loyal but a Southern Democrat." He went on to say he was not a rubber stamp and never would be one.

Which brings the observation that after almost four years living among Coffee County Democrats, it isn't far fetched to say that their approach to social, economic and labor problems coincides more with Republicans in the West than with their Democratic brethren in those states.

A fierce loyalty to a party label will keep the two party system out of this section for many years to come. But it eventually will reach Coffee County and the rest of the South, and whether loyal Democrats believe it or not, will prove as much a boon to the region as the industries which are moving in from the North.

PRICE SUPPORTS ON BUTTER LOWERED

Even ardent price support advocates couldn't do anything but go along with Secretary of Agriculture Benson's decision to lower the price support on butter. The government (with your tax money) had bought so much butter, cheese and powdered milk there was no storage space left for more. Coffee County shoppers quit buying butter because the price was too high in comparison to other goods manufacturers do not operate under the handicap of price support and government controls.

To think that rigid price supports on any commodity, including cotton and peanuts, are the answer to the farm problem is faulty thinking. Sooner or later what happened to butter can happen to cotton and peanuts. The government gets more than it can store or give away without breaking the market. Money runs out and prices have to be lowered. Whether or not Congress and the farmers like it, the point of saturation has been reached on butter and can be reached on other commodities.

In everything there is a breaking point—like the one straw which added to the load on the camel, broke the animal's back. Businessmen and individuals who pay the high taxes going to buy farm surpluses work long and hard to meet their bills and pay taxes. It is this unorganized majority, without any lobby in Congress, who are reaching the breaking point. They are tired of the long hours and small take home pay. Eventually they will demand and get relief.

The interim offers a short period in which growers and processors may seek to expand their markets and get on an independent status. Not to do so is asking for the same fate that has befallen the dairymen who must get 90 per cent of parity for his product in order to stay in business.

GOOD HEALTH
1. HAS MEDICAL CARE COST INCREASED TOO MUCH?
2. WHAT ARE ANTIBIOTICS?
3. IS THE COCKROACH AN ENEMY?

Answer to Question No. 1
The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that clothing costs in June 1951 were 194 per cent higher than the 1939-40 average. House furnishings 112.5 per cent higher, and recreation 68.3 per cent. Medical care costs, however, were only 54.7 per cent above the 1939-40 average. When there is serious illness in the family, medical costs can be high. Nevertheless, the financial burden of medical, surgical and hospital costs to an individual can be lessened by health insurance plans now available.

Answer to Question No. 2
Antibiotics are substances developed from moulds. They are used to destroy or limit the action of certain bacteria or viruses. Antibiotics include penicillin and several others. They ordinarily do not harm normal cells. Antibiotics have been very successful in curing pneumonia, tuberculosis, blood stream infections, syphilis and many other infections. Your family doctor is well informed in the use of antibiotics.

Answer to Question No. 3
Presence in your household of the cockroach means that your housekeeping could be improved. For the roach loves dark, damp, dirty places. It may act as a carrier of disease germs.

Ford presents two new deep-block engines

Ford's new 130-h.p. Y-block V-8

This brand new Overhead-Valve V-8 has an extra-deep block which resembles a "Y" in cross-section. This new deep-block design means greater rigidity for smoother, quieter performance... longer engine life. Other features which make this engine a long-lived, smooth, saving performer are: new low-friction (short-stroke) design, Free-Turning Overhead Valves, new 5-bearing crankshaft, and new high-turbulence combustion chambers.

Ford's new 115-h.p. I-block SIX

Like the new Y-block V-8, this engine has Ford's deep-block design for greater rigidity, longer engine life. Also, like the V-8, you get Ford's modern manifolding, low-friction design, high-turbulence combustion chambers, and Ford's Automatic Power Pilot. One advantage of both new engines is an amazingly flat "torque curve" which gives you top pick-up power through the whole range of driving speeds.
